The Adventurous Luna

Luna, an adventurous squirrel, lived in a vast meadow. Luna loved jumping between trees and collecting shiny objects. One morning, while searching for acorns, she discovered a strange round item near a bush. The compass was small. Luna picked it up and was fascinated by the spinning needle. She tapped it, thinking it was a playful bug. To her amazement, the needle always pointed the same way.

Luna eagerly showed the compass to her friends. They gathered around, curious to understand how it worked. They took turns spinning it, laughing at its consistent direction.

Later, a wise old tortoise arrived and explained to Luna and her friends that the compass helps find directions. Luna realised the importance of tools in exploring. From that day, she became even keener to discover new things in her meadow.
